
Jaguar shows special livery at the tests in Valencia

Jaguar TCS Racing, the reigning ABB FIA Formula E World Championship Team Champion, has unveiled its title contender for Season 11: the new Jaguar I-Type 7. The Jaguar will compete in the pre-season tests scheduled for November 4-7 in Valencia in a special test livery that celebrates Jaguar TCS Racing's 16 victories to date on eleven iconic Formula E circuits. The official livery of the Jaguar I-Type 7 will be revealed by TCS Racing before the start of the season.

The 2024/2025 Formula E season marks a further step in the development of electric vehicle technology with the introduction of the GEN3 Evo regulations. With a new body, all-wheel drive for qualifying duels, the start phase and attack mode phases in the race, as well as new Hankook iON tires with five to ten percent more grip, Formula E races will be faster and therefore more exciting.

Images for article

Jaguar TCS Racing: New Formula E.

Photo: Autoren-Union Mobilität/Jaguar
